- Phishing
- Examples

Usage and psychology

- Why Johnny Can not Encrypt '- study using PGP program - more than 90% of users did not understand the principle in 90 minutes
- Private / public, encryption / signing keys - people are published private keys, delete them and thus lose access to data
- Security is heavy - users have no enough knowledge about issues
- There are always factors that flow into a false sense of security ...

Social engineering

- Identifying targets
- Convincing story
  - "What is your PIN so that we can verify your card?„
- Many interesting examples
  - Kevin Mitnick „Art of Deception“
- The main problems are:
  - Credulity
  - Fear of the unknown
  - Fear of embarrassment

Phishing

- The beginnings date back to 2003 (attacks at AOL users and their passwords)
- By 2006, UK banks have lost £ 35m (£ 33m in just one bank) and US banks close to $ 200m
- The beginnings were mainly motivated by greed for money
- Today there is a whole new range of phishing activity
